Overview and Objectives
Ec 131 is designed to meet a number of needs. It is the first course in the economics major and minor, it is one of the choices to fulfill the social sciences Core requirement, and it serves as an elective to anyone who wants an introduction to economics. It introduces the basic tools of economic analysis and applies these tools both to problems of historical interest and to current public policy.

The course focuses on the individual participants in the economy: producers, workers, employers, and consumers. In everyday economic life, goods are bought and sold, people decide where and how many hours to work. Business managers decide what to produce and how this production is to be organized. These activities result in transactions that take place in markets where buyers and sellers come together. People involved in microeconomic transactions are motivated to do the best they can for themselves with the limited resources at their disposal, using marginal analysis to determine their best course of action.

Requirements
You are expected to attend class regularly. Your final grade will be based on 3 midterms (20% each), final (25 %) and homeworks/quizzes(pop)(15 %).

Administrative Issues
If you need to talk to me and you cannot make it during my office hours, please use email to schedule an appointment. No makeup exams/quizzes will be given. If you cannot attend class during an exam, please notify me at least a week before the day of the exam. Late homeworks will not be accepted. There will be no cellphone or text use during class. There will be no prolonged side discussions tolerated during class as they distract from the learning of others. Each time you violate these guidelines I will make a note and subtract 2 % from your final grade.
Academic Integrity

Your work on exams is to be entirely your own. Be sure you are familiar with the sections on "Academic Integrity" in the Boston College Catalog (pp. 35-36) or online at BCInfo, (A-Z index, Academic Integrity). Be aware that I take this most seriously.
